Notes:

- Only those countries for which we have reliable information are included in the table. 'X' indicates that the information is unavailable.
- Information collected from official sources in July 2010 and believed correct at the time. There may be more age or validity variations available, but the intention is to compare the standard variants only.
- UK passport operations (both in the UK and overseas) are self-financing. Most countries subsidise through taxation.
- ePassports, also known as Biometric Passports, include a chip that stores your personal details (these are visible on biodata page of the passport).
- Passports containing fingerprints are compulsory for the Schengen Member States. The UK passport does not contain fingerprints.
- Fees are given in the original currency as exchange rates vary more often than the passport fees.
